A photograph of a long wedding reception table set in a modern, glass-walled room. The table is covered with a white tablecloth and features a series of gold-colored centerpieces, each with white flowers and greenery. Clear acrylic chairs are lined up along the right side of the table. Above the table, a large, ornate chandelier with multiple lit candles hangs from the ceiling. A large, white, fringed canopy is positioned over the table, adding a touch of elegance. The background shows a view of greenery through the glass walls.
